Student Life

Student activities beyond the classroom are supported through RCCC's Student Services Office. A Student Services Office can be found on both the North and South campuses. The office on the North Campus is located in Building 100. The South Campus office is located in Building 1000, Front Lobby. At these offices, you can find out more about the following services.

Counseling

Professional counseling services are provided to students, prospective students, and the entire college community in the areas of personal, academic, and career counseling. The staff is comprised of trained counselors who are qualified to help individuals assess and understand their personal issues, abilities, aptitudes, interests, and other characteristics. Counseling services are confidential and are focused to promote the growth and success of the individual.

The counseling program is an integral part of the teaching and learning process. Counseling services are provided through the comprehensive work of the Student Services Office and are available on both campuses day and evening.

The Discover Center program offers career-counseling services to students and citizens of the community. These services are offered in both individual and small group formats. State-of-the-art career development materials and programs are utilized to assist individuals in exploring career options, determining appropriate career choices, and then making short and long-range plans to achieve career goals.

Educational Placement

Rowan-Cabarrus Community College is committed to providing high-quality education to the citizens of Rowan and Cabarrus counties. Through a comprehensive assessment and placement program, the college assures that entering students have appropriate prerequisite levels of skill to be reasonably sure of success in further academic study. Results are used before registration to help the student plan a program of study.

Occupational Information

Information on occupations, educational programs, and job opportunities is available through the college to students and prospective students. The staff in the Student Services Office is available to assist anyone in finding and interpreting desired information.

Job Placement

A job placement service is available for Rowan-Cabarrus Community College students and alumni in the Student Services Office at both campuses. The Director of Job Placement and faculty keep in touch with area businesses and industries so that they will be aware of job opportunities in the various fields taught at the college.

The purpose of the job placement service is to help students establish contact with prospective employers and present qualifications for employment. Job-seeking skills, resumè writing, and interviewing skills are offered in an individual and small group setting. The responsibility for getting the job rests entirely with the individual. Companies and other organizations that wish to consider graduates of Rowan-Cabarrus Community College are invited to call or write the Student Services Office. Interviews with prospective graduates are generally arranged on the campus during the Spring Semester and Summer Term. A representative from the Employment Security Commission is on campus weekly.

Student Participation in College Decision-Making

RCCC encourages and provides for student involvement in institutional governance and decision-making through the following means:

The Student Government Association (SGA) elects student representatives from each academic division to provide input and recommendations to the college. The SGA Constitution, approved by the college's Board of Trustees, details the purpose and responsibilities of the SGA. Administrative and supervisory responsibilities for the SGA reside with the Vice President of Student Services. The SGA's elected president serves as a non-voting member of the Board of Trustees.

Students contribute to college decision-making through interaction with faculty and staff and through participation in campus clubs and organizations.

Student involvement also occurs through membership on advisory committees and task forces such as Developmental Studies, Student Success, Students with Disabilities, and Diversity.

Student Government Association

Explanation and Functions

There is more to life than books and classes at Rowan-Cabarrus Community College. What goes on outside the classroom is also very important. The school offers a wide variety of social and cultural opportunities which, as well as being enjoyable, expand the learning experience. Students are encouraged to plan their own activities and programs through the Student Government Association and may use any of the excellent facilities for assembly, theatre, club meetings, relaxation, and recreation.

All students at Rowan-Cabarrus Community College are members of the Student Government Association (SGA) and have the chance to participate in the organization and control of student activities. In addition, membership in the SGA gives students the opportunity to learn responsible citizenship and gain practical experience in the democratic process.

The constitution and activities of the SGA are subject to the approval of the administration of the college.

Clubs

All students are invited to join the departmental, service, and special interest clubs which are an important part of life at Rowan-Cabarrus Community College.

Students who are interested in forming a new club should contact the Director of Student Life concerning their particular interests.

Student Publications

RCCC respects the right of free and open discussion and encourages student involvement with publications created, developed, and funded through the SGA.

Student opinions in such publications do not necessarily reflect the position of the college. The student newsletter funded by the SGA is "The Achiever."

A faculty/staff advisor assists students in developing this publication in a manner consistent with responsible journalism, English composition, and the stated purposes of the college. The college has developed a policy and procedure for the development and review of student publications (Procedure No. 7.903).

Whenever the advisor of a student publication is unable to resolve issues regarding a student publication, the advisor will involve the Vice President of Student Services.

Intramural Sports

Intramural sports are organized as student groups desire through the Student Government Association.

Royal blue and white are the official school colors, and "The Warrior" is the name of the Rowan-Cabarrus Community College mascot.

RCCC conducts various classes and seminars in the area of health and safety. Annual seminars are held on Bloodborne Pathogens, Hazardous Materials, AIDS Education, Fire Safety, and Drugs. The college has a policy and procedure concerning communicable diseases. This information is available in the office of the Vice President of Student Services.

Communicable Diseases

A communicable disease is an illness due to an infectious agent or its toxic products which is transmitted directly or indirectly to a person from an infected person or animal. Communicable diseases include, but are not limited to, acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS), hepatitis, chicken pox, measles, meningitis, whooping cough, mononucleosis, mumps, and rubella.

Students and employees who know or believe they have been infected with a communicable disease have both a legal and ethical obligation to conduct themselves in a manner that will protect themselves and others. Individuals who contract a communicable disease are responsible for reporting this fact to appropriate RCCC officials. Students are to report this information to the Vice President of Student Services. All such information will be kept confidential. Only persons with a "need to know" will be informed with the direct knowledge of the affected student.

Employees and students with a communicable disease will be allowed to engage in work or study as long as they are able to meet acceptable performance standards and medical evidence indicates that their condition is not a threat to other persons on campus.

A student may be prohibited from attending RCCC until an appropriate evaluation of the student's medical condition can be completed. The assessment of a student's condition with a communicable disease and the final determination of that student's ability to stay in school will be made by the Vice President of Student Services after consultation with, and recommendation from, local health authorities. If a student is found to have a communicable disease that poses a risk to others, the Vice President of Student Services will prohibit the attendance of the student until such time that a letter is presented by one or more physicians certifying that further attendance is no longer a risk to others. Information and brochures on AIDS and other communicable diseases can be obtained from the Student Services Office.

To help prevent the spread of communicable diseases, students are cautioned to avoid contact with body fluids of other persons. Disposable plastic gloves and bags are located in first aid kits in each building. These can be used to clean up any body fluid spills that may be encountered and for the administration of first aid. In addition, proper handwashing is recommended as a prime precaution against the spread of disease. For assistance or further information, contact the Student Services Office.
